THEY DEPART FOR WASHINGTON

Citizeus of All Political Convictions and Social Planes Join in the Demonstration.

CANTON, O., March i.—It was indeed a beautiful and impressive scene that Canton presented this evening when her citizens bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. McKinley as they entered the special train in waiting to convey them to Washiogton. The people of the city ned to have turned out en masse to seemed to have turned out a masses of do honor to their distinguished neigh-bors and friends who so long have been regarded with the kreutest love and on-teem, and who by the honors they have won in the nation have done so much

No lines were drawn in the large concurse of people which followed the McKinley carriage to the train and amrounded the station to mingle their cheers in the mighty rounds which echoed above the din of the train as it disappeared in the east.

Young and old, rich and poor, richly gowned and humbly clad, lowly and adithent, people of all political convictions, of all treeds, of all social planes, touched clowes and jostical each other about to the mighty throng which surrounded the Penneylvanis station, each seeking some point of vantage for a test look at the speeding party, and each good natured and indifferent to the personal disconfiort syncioned through the morements of others.

The day dewned with that blustery quality of March weather which brooks to prearranged programs. Hasts of wind that made the air seem far rolder than the thermometers registered were followed by fittol flurries, and then in turn by broaths of seed and ley rainfall. But as the day advanced the weather promises of the morning were not redeemed. There was still assignment in turn by broaths of seed and ley rainfall. But as the day advanced when a decided moderation in the temperature, with new and then a ray of sunshine, and by non all traces of snow had disappeared. There was still assignment of rain, but it was not strong and the indicating their oft-repeated wish to astend ome concerted farewill demonstration took heart from the assermment that whatsoever other conditions might prevail the temperature would be mild and he people of the city would be ablot to traiting their oft-repeated wish to astend one concerted farewill demonstration to the fart from the assermment that whatsoever other conditions might prevail the temperature would be mild and he people of the city would be ablot to traiting their oft-repeated wish to astend one concerted farewill demonstration to the first dependent of the seembled multitude, and more devoted scort man never ladd than that which bortly before 7 o'clock marched to the seembled multitude, and mor and will participate in the inaugural parade.

Following the troop came Canton's famous tiread Army band, This in turn was followed by the Third hattation, Eighth regiment, Ohio National guard. This regiment was to have been honovary execut to the President-sheet on the trip to Washington and from the capitol station to the lotel, but the failure to secure antistatory railroad arrangements prevented this, as well as other Ohio military organizations, joining in the imageral demonstration. Three companies, a signal and a hespital corps, constitute the battalion.

In the order named were the Canton Basiness Men's Association, Grand Army poste, old soldiers, the First Ward Republican club, of which Major McKinley is a member, the Second Ward Hepublican club, of which Major McKinley is a member, the Second Ward Hepublican club, other clubs and societies and unorganized citizes and societies and unorganized citizes of Canton Companied of the curvaling towns.

tou, Massillön and other currounding towns.

Thus organized the column marched through the public square and up Market streat fill, passing the McKunley home, and then counter marched on Market streat. When the Business, Man's Association was opposite the McKinley gate the coulcun halted and waited for Major and Mrs. McKinley and their attendants to enter the carriage in waiting. This carriage was drawn by four splendidly caparisoned horses, and around it the members of the Canton Business Mon's Association stationed themselves as a guard of the carriage horses and the business are completed the bollow square in

The Mckinley arch, just at the foot of Market street hill, was illuminated as darkness fell over the city and shone respleudent as the column marched under it, going to and from the McKinley house.

Hondreds of incandescent lights sent their soft rays far along the street on either side and indu bright for the time the decorations and statuary, now have the probably illuminated for the last time totally illuminated for the last time totally a service and the marchers as they passed worsted by the wearant ably illuminated for the last time to-night and the marchers as they passed looked backward for a last glimpse of the new the most complement rewhat is now the most conspicuous re-minder of the exciting campaign in Can-ton last fall, in which hundreds of Mou-sands of people from all quarters of the country participated.

There was no detour from the direct rout to the station made by the column. Along the line the carriage containing the President-elect and wife was kept in a halo of brilliam! light from flambean omitting lurid rod rays, replaced from time to time as they burned dimity. At which spire and Rome and though there were also borned and though there were also borned and though there were no organized effort in that line, individuals at various places cent skyrockels and Rome candies through the sit. As the head of the column reached the train and halted, the rear pushed forward and the crowds from the sidewalks mighed with the marching for seal and an entitying general was all the crowds from the sidewalks mighed with the marching mass of humanity, each striving heroically to get hearts the point be last seen, and some striving for a last headchake, although the committee had arranged there should be none of that. As the train pulled out from the striving of the presence of the president-elect winds be last seen, and some striving for a last headchake, although the committee had arranged there should be none of that. As the train pulled out from the striving for a salut of cannon free! by John O. Dueber, at honder Holgitts, it was greated with chosers from the as-cembled multitude.

The Senate Makes Good Headway With Appropriation

Wasiungton, March 1.-The house galleries were througed with visitors all day but the crawds witnessed nothing galleries were througed with visitors all day but the crawds witnessed nothing beyond the dullest of routina matters, except in the last part of the session, when the bill to prohibit the transmission of detailed accounts of prize fights by mail or telegraph, was brought up. This led to a very lively skirminds, in which prize fighting was denounced on all sides and the advocates of the bill insisted that the "dickoning details" should be suppressed in the interest of good morals. But the bill not never a finite strenuous opposition on the ground that it would tend to establish a conscrain of the adversaries of the messure outvoted the friends of the bill on several fillbustering motions, but an agreement for a recess until 10 o'clock tomorrow put an end to the hustilities.

The bill now becomes the unfinished husiness whenever the call of commuttees is reached, but as confarence rereports have the right of way, it is doubtful whether that order of business will again be reacted this session. The cenate bill to test the metits of the patent posall card of the Economic Postal Association was laid on the table.

From the rear platform of the train the Major made the following address to the friends who had assembled to say arrwell:

"My neighbors, friends and fellow citizens: On the eve of my departure to the sest of government, soon to asseme the duties of an arddoor scapousibility, as great as can devolve upon any man, nothing could give me greater pleasure than this farewell greetisg—this evidence of your friendship and spraghtly, your good will and, I am sure, the prayers of all the people with whom I have lived so long and whose condidence and esteem are dearer to me than any other earthly home.

"To all of us the future is a sealed book, but if I can, by official act, or administration or utterance, to any degree, add to the prosperity of our beloved country and the comfort and well being of our splendid citizenship, I will so devote the best and most unselfesh efforts of my life. The assumption of the clust magistracy is of such grave importances that partiannable cannot billud the judgment or necept part outer consideration but for this public good of all, to avery porty and sways section. With this thought uppermost a my mind I require the prosperity of the public good of all, to avery porty take leave of my friedig and my neighbors, cherishing in my heart the sweetest memories and the tenderest thoughts of my old home—my home now and I first my home hereafter, no long as I live. The expenses of one was defrayed with private checks, while that of the other was a public demonstration displaying the benefactions to the masses of the energons woult-o-do. McKenna retinquisties a life job at $6900 a year for a four years' tenure at $6000. It has leaked out, however, that he is booked for the United Shates supreme court upon the retirement of Associate Jurice Stephen J. Field, who has intimated that his resignation is ready to be sent in at any time after the 4th of Murch 100x. No one, except the managers of the Southern Paulite will shed tens of secrew or regret at that event when it occurs.

At the annual meeting of the Iroquois club, held a few nights ago, the tabooed Max Popper was elected Ohief Sachem unanimously. Buckley did not show his band. Ohairman Alford, of the Democratic state central committee, made the speech of the occasion. To cay the least it was a masterly sifert—for Alford. He sounded the keystone of the compaign of 1990, naming W. J. Bryan as the next Freedont of the United States, leaving no ground for debate on that question. It is possible that the hey orater of the Platte may die helore that the hey orater of the Platte may die helore that then, and then what would the poor country do?

would the poor country do?

There is a more restin feeling among the unumployed since the authorities having the matter in charge have concluded to construct the Ocean View bouleward. Those win in lave come to the rescan of the familiary by liberal subscriptions will provide the means to carry the project through. At the out eat there were obligations of working men flooded in from Alameda, but they were judiciously sitted out and sont back to be taken care of by that country. The mayor has taken a sharp interest in the movement, and dan't you mistake "Hammie". Phelan is on a strike for governor two years bence. Now, if they can only keep the jaw agitnore quiet all will be peaceful, but these jubbering scaletos are as industrions as fless in their endeavors to make a living out of disorder. Should the present their occupation will be gone. They are a greater terror than sturvation and peace.

Already there are numerous statesmen devising ways and means to get the ear and secure the good grace of President McKinley in view of the pie entre. It is set down in intellible ink that that the inevitable Spear, who upset the Spreakels delegation in the national convention, and who is a personal friend of Major McKinley, will explure the mint. There are several highly reputable men who want to be collector of the port, but no one seems to have a cinch on it. There have been no tricks put up to oust Colonel Irieh from the naval office, and the general impression is that he carned the position by following Bryan as closely as it was safe for him to venture during the campaign. John F. Jackson will manage the sub-treasury, just as he did under Harrison, and all the minur planes are coveted by regiments. Fitsgerald is said to feel a little disappointed at the choice of McKinley for the cabinet, as he otherished thehope that he would be recognized as worthy of promotion from the state to the federal department of justice.

I notice sewral Fresno boys on the streets reading signs as they pass slong, and among others Wolford, the Texan. He is probably looking up a good sand to invest some of his lately discovered wealth. It is wonderful how lucky gome peoples are. It is not safe to led with such a man on a sure proposition, for you would be sure to lose. Mark Walser is also hore. The thirdle may be a very useful plant in Nebraeka, but it will be just as well if Californians try to get along without it. They have enough to do now looking after those incomparable forage plants known as Johnson grass and Bermuda grass. They can worry along without the Nebraeka importation. asks importation.

THE REPUBLICAN IS Of the opinion that the legislative committee which decided against a free, market in San Francisco was more influenced by the arguments of the commission men than by their inination to benefit the producers of th state and the consumers of the metropo-lis. Nearly all of the principal cities of Europe and many in this country have such markets, and their benefits are not questioned. The people will evidently have to make the free market an issue in the election of legislators before they can hope to have the matter brought to a successful issue.

The San Francisco Chronicle says that the jackrabbit, long regarded by the farmers of this valley as a pest, may yet be esteemed for its fur. The batters of the East are discovering that this particular kind of fur is exce adapted to the manufacture of felt of the nest quality, and in the near future we may see big shipments of the skine to the hat-making centers quiess in the eantime we have the sagacity to utiliz the product at our doors and engage in the manufacture of felt on our own account. In view of the great importance of the beet sugar industry in this state it is surprising that a more general interest is not man-Hested in its development.

A DISCREDITED SENSATION

There may or may not be a joker in the Caminetti bill now in the hands of the Governor requiring judges to trans er civil cases under certain condition out the Examiner has gone clear beyon the bounds of common sense in making wholesale charges of corruption in regard to the passage of the bill by the

So far as the assembly is concerned the fact that the bill based unanimously discredits rather than substantiates the charge of bribery. People who purchase legislation do not invest their money where it is not required. Much dismay has been caused in France by the rigid enforcement of the new regulations with regard to the distribution of the Order of the Legion of Honor. Henceforth only half of the vacancies that occur moving the knights of the vations grades are to be filled up. This is done with the object of restoring the value of this mational order, which has become somewhat impaired by the reskless profusion and lack of discrimination with which it has been distributed.

It is reserved in pontifical circles at Home that the pope is about to disband the force known as the Palatine guard of the Vateau owing to a soundalous scene which took piace a short time ago at the Church of Angell Custodi during the memorial service for the pontifical soldiers killed in 1870. The scene in question was brought about by an improper attempt on the part of the Palatine guard to assert their superiority and procedence over the Swiss contingent of the pope.

The recent elections which have taken place in France have served to call attention to the remarkable indifference of the population to political matters. In three of the most important departments of France less than 50 per cent of the voters inscribed on the registers took the trouble to go to the pulls, while in the departments of Youne and of the Doubs an extra ballot was actually found necessary, as none of the candidates had pelled the number of votes aronized by law. The same phenomenon dates had polled the number of votes re-quired by law. CONSUMPTION.

The Conditions Which Invite a Footho

The perias of this disease council ob ain a footbuld until the resistive pow

The perms of this disease cannot obtain a feetbald until the resistive powers of the fissues have been reduced. There must be not only the seed, but the soil. This impaired power of resistance may be the result of heredity, and this influence in the causetion of disease is seldom shown to better advantage than in the history of consumption. There have been instances in which a single case introduced into a long and sound amostry has vitiated the stock forever. How unfortunate that such matters are so little considered in marrying and giving in marriage I it is not that the disease is inherited, but the vulnerable thames, the feedle resistive powers, mader the offspring an easy prey to the ubiquitous bacillus. This weatness often shows itself by a tendency to become if from slight causes, a sickliness not by my means to be confounded with merely a lack of robustness or strength. Our owners to be communified, and the legining of the disease can often be travel to an attack of some slight alment. THE LONGFELLOW STATUE.

THE LONGFELLOW STATUE.

A Fitting Memerial of the Poet at Portland, His Birthplace.

One of the best instances of what the statue of any great mun should be—at may rate, in the respect of its situation, its perspective with repart to ther nemerials and the local estimation to which it is held—is the statue of Longfellow at Perthaul, by Mr. Franklin Simmons, It is a dignified scated figure of the poet in broaze, comprign a conspicuous site in the best part of the town, in the middle of a square which is now known as Longfellow square. The statue was ruised a few years ago by a fond solicitest through a while field, but chiedly obtained, I believe, in Portland. The semilar was chosen through that curious local spirit which has affected unfavourely many of our architectural and other monuments. He was avoided by the self-statue had not been some and the was avoided by selected because be was a "Maine man," though he had never seen the poet. However, the result in this case-seens to have been suppy. The statue has much lecuty, and the likeness is scall to be excellent.

This status stands in the poet's native town, as is entirely proper. It may appeal every day to the even of thousands of young people, born very much as low was born, who should see in it the suggestion of possibility for them. Poeting mong the seenes of his youth, and it symbolizes the satisfaction which every man feels to have his name reason berth in Stante.

A resolution of intention to construct a lateral sewer in blocks 3 and 8, Woodwarl's addition, was read by the clerk, A similar resolution was adopted at the last zuesting of the board and Tracteo Spinney deema detrocked. He was told that it been decembed to the was resolution was into plan of the sawer, and for this purpose a new resolution would have to be adopted. The uniter was referred to the sewer committee.

A petition was resolved from the city board of education and other abutting property property owners asking that they be allowed to grade 0 street, between Taclumne and Stanislaus, by private contract. The high school block fronts on this street, The board of deficient and all the other property owners asked to have 0 street back of the Contract achool, between Freeno and Mercuel streets, graded also by private contract. Spinney here wanted to know where the city attorney was as he desired some advice regarding the putitions. Clerk Shanklin said L. L. Cory, who is acting as the city's lend advices in the absence of Accomblyman Lloyd W. Moultrie, had told him that he would be on hand at 7,30 o'clock. The point on which the trustee desired advice was not of importance, however, and the two putitions were granted.

Mr. Spinney then took accasion to commont somewhat forcibly on the absence of a logal advice for the city, "We pay for the law and ought to have it," declared the truske. "We are city trustees and not hwyers, and we should have legal advice when we constitute the second of the property of the absence of a logal advice for the city restees and not hwyers, and we should have legal advice when we constitute. long talk with Monuminger, the secretary of the treasury.

"If I find that England will aid us," he said, "I will send you word by some reliable blockade counter. It will be a very brief message, but you will understand it, while it will mean nothing to the enemy if it should be intercepted."

The confidential agent slipped through the lines, and in less than a month was confertably established in London. In the metropolis he found many southerns and many prominent Englishmen who sympathized with the secessionists. He set with Yanuer, the Confederate minister, every day, and the two worked together in harmony. Mr. Yanee, was a practical man and was not long in coming to the conclusion that no aid was to be expected from the British gov. n coming to the conclusion that no coast to be expected from the British go

"The abolition sentiment controls here," he said to Mr. Blank. "Some of the statesmen would like to help the south in order to break up the Union, but the people will never consent. The south will have to flight alone."

Blank felt pretty blue when he heard this, and that night he wrote the single word "successful" on a thin slip of paper and skillfully secreted it in an ordinary cont button. The next day he was visited by a southern friend, who remained with him for an hone or more. During his stay he removed the top button fram his coat and seved on one given by Mr. Blank.

I understand it all," he said when he left. "If I get safely to Wilnington. I will go at once to Richmond and give this button to Mr. Menuminger. I prefer not to know the miture of the message, as yen say that if explains itself."

"Yes," replied Blank, "it will be understood by the secretary, and as it refers to a state specie I cannot say anything about it."

understood by the secretary, and as it refers to a state secret I cannot say anything about it."

The two shock hands, and the gentlaman with the precious button took the next train for Livenpool, where he bearded a steamer bound for Winning-ton.

The steamer was chased by Federal craisers, but she managed to reach her destination without any serious mishing. In the course of two or three days the mysterious traveler called on Mr. Meminger in Richmond and presented him with a batton. The secretary cut off its covering in a hurry and saided when larged the word "successful."

The next day he was at Erlanger's office in Paris. The French Lamker informed his visitor that there was no mistake, and then Blank awore vigorously. The bills rushed in from all quarters. If the demands of these speech tors had been mor, Solo, 000, 000 in Confederate bonds could have been sold. When this fact became known, Mr. Blank again relapsed into profunity. He could not stand it, and, despite the danger of the trip, he made his arrangements to return home. It is interview with Memminger was a stemy one when he marrived at Richmond.

two ago. It was a Pennsylvania case, where a saldier enlisted as Harmon Francis, a name he assumed for the carrect one of Hiram Francis. He fought bravely through three years of the war in Company K of the Ninety-seventh Infantry volunteers. At the end of that term of sorvice he was veteranized and re-callsted for three years more. Het soen, by the consent of his company and regiment officers, he was allowed to go home, and his brother, George Francis, took his place in the runks.

Now, the brother Hiram is dead. George served to the end of the war mut received honorable discharge in his brother's assumed name. He was wounded in the mine explosion at Petersburg, for which he drew a pension under his brother's enlisted mean mit he latter died, when it was stopped. But George wants a pension for his 17 menths' service. Hiram's widow new receives pension for the service of her dead husband. This was too much for the bureau of pensions, and so the matter was taken to congress, where the committee on treatile pensions decides that both soldier and substitute's widow are entitled to government add in their declining years.—Washington Post.

The South Carolinian

terms with his northern neighbor. His fogling for his southern neighbor, the Cloorgian, is also one of mere tolorance, for the lutter has long been called the scetthern Yankee and fairly descrives the appullation. He has much of the shrowdness and push that mark the typical "down easter," and he has a considerable share of that worthy's moral currentness. In addition he has a good deal of the Virginium's geninitize and love of confort, of the North Carolinian's unpretending democracy and of the South Carolinian's tendency to exhibitions of flory temper.

But over and above overything else he has an housest and hearty and not unfounded pride in Georgia, and a sort of Musonic affiliation with overy person, animal, institution, custom—in short, thing—that can be called Georgian. He may not always stand for culture, but he does always stand for but he would wirtus generally—neither is le avorage to the showy once—but shove all he love virtoo in action. Though possessed of a strong, clear inhelicet, he is more particularly a man of five somes, of which he makes as good use as he can.
